LAOS PROJECT 2025

Sponsoring children at Luang Prabang

Action France

- Project managed by Hongkham: UFL Project Manager, Director of the Luang Prabang Primary School and its bilingual Lao-French classes, in charge of setting up and managing the LAOS action in the Xiengthong district of Luang Prabang.
- Project managed by Pitsana: Head of the School Development Department at the Luang Prabang District Education Office.

Oui Ensemble, born of our experience piloting a project in LAOS under the aegis of the association UFL (à l'Unisson France Laos), is a project designed to make a contribution to the building of an inclusive and sustainable future by making the best use of funds for solidarity development. Indeed, despite the key role played by the associative ecosystem in complementing public authorities in the social and economic fabric, the survival of associations is threatened by challenges in terms of financial and volunteer human resources, internal management and regulations.

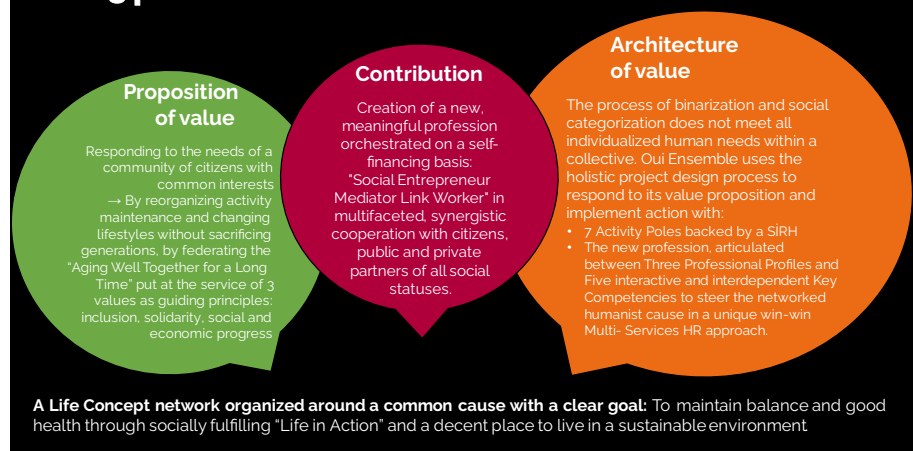

Clear-sighted, open to the world and armed with a bold imagination, we were driven to experiment with a new solution that could be duplicated by creating a different form of local, national and international cooperation between a developed and a developing country. Our aim is to federate cooperation rather than competition, by pooling resources to achieve better results. All the more so as the decline in the working population (inversion of the age pyramid linked to aging populations) and in resources, sounds the death knell for a profound reconfiguration of our societies and their foundations.

Youth needs us, and we need them!

Oui Ensemble is a project orchestrated around a humanist concept of life, with a business model articulated around 3 pillars and a financial plan that is not an end in itself, as it is part of our solution for ourselves and for others.

2025 is the year of alignment on the same path/voice between the teams in France and Laos.

Second activity 2025 – Laos action

Keeping 4 children in school under the aegis of the UFL Association

Our aim is not to give handouts to underprivileged children. We identify their needs and take action to maintain their balance and good health, so that they can stay active by staying in school.

Knowing that a child's development is built within his or her family, school and environmental environment, we want to give them a helping hand to make the transition to adulthood with dignity.

Context of the child's life

Phout's parents have disappeared and she lives with her grandmother. They are both tolerated in a living room built at the bottom of a garden, as the owners have no use for it.

Her 39-year-old grandmother is illiterate and has cognitive problems that make it difficult for her to find work. To survive, she gathers vegetables in the forest and ponds, which she is not always able to sell to support her granddaughter, forcing her to beg.

Phout's school is 6 km from where she lives. Undernourished, she doesn't always have the energy to walk there, and so she's fallen behind in her schooling. Nevertheless, this sad and reserved little girl deserves a helping hand.

Context of the child's life

Navil lives with his 65-year-old grandmother. The lady has health problems and can't work.

They both live on handouts. The shack they've been lent is insalubrious. They wash in a stream, juggling with a sewer that runs into it. Their food is brought to them by the old lady's children, who don't have much money, or by neighbors who take pity on them.

Navil has deep eyes and a strong character. He likes to go to school, which is not far from their shack, but his miserable state and the hunger that grips him do not play in his favor to follow his schooling assiduously.
